Danny Maher

JAN 6, 2014

Danny J. Maher, 27, of Strongsville, passed away, suddenly and unexpectedly, on Monday January 6th, 2014.

He was born in Cleveland, Ohio on February 15, 1986, to Danny & Michelle Maher (formerly Neal). Brother of Erin and Brian Maher, grandson of Ester Neal, loving nephew and cousin to his extended family, and guardian of his beloved pets Trinity, Neo, Charlie, and Jake. Danny graduated from Strongsville High School in 2004. Danny obtained an Associates of Applied Science degree in September 2006. He was employed at Metro Toyota.

Danny arrived at every party with a car trunk full of board games and two large Code Red Mountain Dews. Danny loved watching shows and movies, his favorites being Doctor Who, Supernatural, and Buffy. He especially enjoyed hanging out with his great group of friends for "Tuesday Night Buffy". Danny was an all-around gamer, he loved his pc, board, and card games. He enjoyed camping and hiking with his family and friends, as well as soaking up the few warm rays Cleveland had to offer. He frequented Ground Zero where he enjoyed reading comic books, playing card and board games, and spending time with friends. Danny was proud to be an established judge and member of Magic the Gathering Judges of the Midwest (USA-Central). Whatever the adventure, he was truly happy just spending time with his family and friends. He had a sense of humor that will never be forgotten.

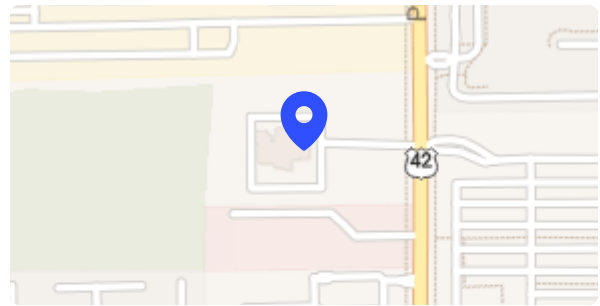

Please join us (to say farewell) Saturday, January 11, 2014 from 1:00-4:00 at Jardine Funeral Home, 15822 Pearl Rd, Strongsville, OH 44136. Memorial service to follow and his family has requested that everyone bring a story or memory to share.

In lieu of flowers please send donations to Noah's Ark Rescue in memory of Danny. (www.noahs-arks.net).

Dear Danny Maher, Wherever you are now, I want to say that I'm sorry we weren't closer. Our names were so close, that you were always by my side, but I didn't always see you. In junior high, I would open my locker, take out my books, my mind speeding into the next class. You would be there, standing calmly with your mischievous smirk. "BAM!" My books were on the floor, and that smirk graduated to a true grin. Then I would kick you a few times for good measure~ I had a couple of seconds to spare. In the next class, Mr. Bardou would ask if I had a twin brother, meaning you. I would grimace and deny it, somewhat bitterly. Why do they always think we're related?? In high school, you still wore only black. I was still there, seated by your side, not paying you much mind. Except our hair colors did match.....and your dark brown eyes were kind of pretty. But I didn't tell you that. You were mostly quiet, but when you spoke in that deep voice, you always had something interesting and devious to say. I smiled in secret. You gave me a compliment once. Maybe other people sometimes said the same, I don't know, but I remember when you told me. The bell would ring, and you'd be gone. But I never paid any mind. I knew you would be right next to me again, the next time. Decades ago, my Irish name was the same as yours. I know the details of your young face. You could have been my brother~ I could have gotten to know you more. I was shy. You were cool. You are gone now. I'll never be next to you again. The boy who could have been my twin. I should have said "Yes!" and laughed. You were a true sweetheart. I miss you, next to me. Love always, Danielle Mahar

I cannot believe this. If only I had known sooner, I would have been able to go and pay my last respects to the family. I hadn't seen Dan in a long time, but I remember all of those Friday nights with him and our whole group almost every week in high school. I still have great memories of the bonfires we would all have in his back yard during the summers and how we would all get crazy on coolers full of Fanta. And all of those times that we would help out at his house for Halloween/his mom's birthday. I remember giving him a cloth Metallica poster one year as a gift. He acted cool like it was no big deal, but then at his house one time I discovered that it was a poster for his favorite album and that it had the honorary spot, hanging above his bed. For some reason, he always enjoyed wrestling around with me for no reason out of the blue, and I always knew that he was nearby in the hall at school if I felt my ponytail being pulled. I'll admit I kind of liked it and had a bit of a crush, but I never trusted myself to say anything. We shared a lot of great moments, and after finding this out tonight, they are all flooding back. His hall nods, I'll never forget those. I can't believe that he's gone. I have always continued to wonder how he was and what he had been up to, that maybe I would randomly run into him back in Strongsville sometime on one of my visits, especially whenever I drive by his house. I cannot believe that that will never happen now. Oh Dan, you can't imagine how much you will be missed. My prayers go out to his family and everyone who loved him. I will always have nothing but fond memories of him. Bye Dan

I'm very sorry that the world lost a brilliant young man... growing up, I was an object of ridicule and was picked on by boys who thought brains and pudge were something you could tease someone about. Danny was always someone to put them in their place with grace and intellect, then conversing with me to make sure I was not down on the events that just transpired and that I was a strong person. I have not forgotten that he was compassionate and there to help others - he helped me through so much and did not know that his kind words and actions made the school days much easier to bear. May he rest in peace and God bless.

I'm jealous of the atoms and cells that will get to be around your energy next. I hope someday we are reunited as clumps gas and dust just outside the universe. Then we can spend the next couple of billion years together. Until then, I'll miss you, love your pal, Corey.

I don't think my previous note posted.... Danny was the life of the party and an essential and core part of our group. He was always ready with a quick comeback, clever phrase or borderline inappropriate joke that only he could convey properly. So full of life. He was an incredibly loyal friend for so long to so many and will be missed beyond words can say. Danny, I miss you so much. I'll see you on the other side some day. Until then, I'll work on my magic skills so I can challenge you to a game. Love, Jess.
